Band Exercises for Older Adults: Using Resistance to Build Strength and Prevent Falls
Finding Balance
Exercising with resistance bands is a great way to build strength in all parts of your body - legs, arms, and core. Bands are portable and inexpensive. You can use them at home, outdoors, or at the gym.

Building strength with bands is safe and effective and will:

- Reduce your risk for falls
- Improve your physical capabilities
- Deter some chronic diseases

Generally, increasing your strength will lessen the symptoms of aging. (Seguin et al. 2003)

Almost anyone can exercise with bands.

If you:

- have talked with your healthcare provider about exercising
- have been regularly doing some exercises and/or activities
- have enough strength in your hands to hold a band securely,

then you are ready to exercise with bands.

Be Active

Adults aged 65 years and older should accumulate at least 150 minutes of moderate to vigorous intensity aerobic physical activity per week in bouts of 10 minutes or more. Plus, it is beneficial to add muscle and bone strengthening activities, like exercising with bands, at least 2 days per week.
For these exercises you will need:

- A sturdy chair without arms, like a kitchen chair
- Shoes that are flat and supportive
- Clothing that allows you to move freely
- A band

Bands come in various colours representing different amounts of tension or resistance.

Tension can also be increased by moving your hands closer together to shorten the length of the band.

Bands are also called:

- Resistance bands
- Exercise bands
- Therapy bands
- Tubing
- Loop bands
- Figure 8 bands or Elastic bands
Before You Exercise

Warm up your body
- Do 5-10 minutes of light to moderate aerobic activity:
  - Walk briskly, dance, bike, or row
- Move your muscles:
  - Rise up on your toes then your heels
  - Squat half way down or sit to stand
  - Do arm circles and wall push-ups
When you feel warm and alert and you are perspiring lightly, you are ready to go.

Review the exercises
- Read through the instructions and look at the pictures
- Practice each movement without the band

Select the right band
- Choose a band that you can move through the entire range
- Change where you grip the band to adjust the tension
- Begin exercising with lighter tension, increasing resistance as you progress over time

Using a band with too much tension can cause injury - or it could snap back and hit you!
As You Exercise

- Maintain good posture:
  - Sit up tall, tighten your core, relax your shoulders
- Grip band firmly, but don’t cause white knuckles
- Make slow, controlled movements:
  - Don’t allow band to snap back
- Continue breathing throughout:
  - Don’t hold your breath
  - Exhale as you pull on the band
- Always keep a slight bend in your knees and elbows:
  - Never lock your joints or hyperextend.

Consider a lighter band if any of the movements are too hard to do.

An Important Reminder:

Always listen to your body!
Stop exercising if:
- A movement causes pain
- You become dizzy
- You feel not right or “off”

To tighten or engage your core, imagine pulling your belly button towards your spine.

Cool Down Your Body

Use this time to cool your mind and body:

- Start your cool down with 2-3 minutes of either walking around the room or walking on the spot
- Perform the same exercises you did during warm-up
- Add stretching to your cool-down

Always cool-down after exercise and before you sit down or stand still for lengths of time.

Important to:

- Move slower
- Lower heart rate
- Breathe deeper
Included in this booklet is a selection of basic band exercises to get you started!

Many of the exercises have additional variations. Perform 1-3 sets of 10-15 repetitions for each exercise. Consider a more challenging band tension once you can complete 3 sets of 15 reps.

No matter what your abilities are today, you can improve your strength and balance.
